From the Desk of Fr. Dan

Well...this is a tough one. We just laid to rest, Kathy. So unexpected and sudden. It has been a difficult week for all of us who knew Kathy and were touched in some way by her. I want to thank all those who helped with the funeral Mass and with the luncheon; it is greatly appreciated.

Kathy seemed to know everybody in the community and at church. She was known as the go-to person for many things here at church. And more importantly, she was a wife, mother, grandmother, and friend. She will be missed. I think it goes to show us how important it is to cherish our loved ones and to let them know how much they mean to us.

Unfortunately, Kathy was not the only one to pass last week; Tom and Mary Hotchkiss both passed away within a week of each other. It was a blessing to know both of them. They were a lovely couple who loved each other deeply. They will be missed by all of us who loved them.

We know that death is a part of life, but that doesn't make it any easier when it happens to someone we love and are close to; it hurts deeply, it's like a gut punch, and the wind is knocked out of us. It is important that we have loved ones around to help comfort us and that we comfort one another. We cherish the memories we have of our loved ones. And we know that those who have died, with faith in the Lord, will be waiting for us on the other side. Those who have left this world are now in the house that Christ has made for them (as we are told in the funeral liturgy). We commend those who have gone on before us to the mercy and embrace of God.

I know it has been a somber week, so I considered not putting in my corny jokes section, but I thought everyone could use a little pick-me-up, so here we go: I got fired from my job at the ice cream factory. I refused to work on sundaes.

Coffee was just voted the best drink in the nation. But it was an unfair vote; some tea ballots were absent.

A man was injured in a bizarre peek-a-boo accident. He's in the ICU.

Don't throw sodium chloride at people. That's a salt.

Okay, I hope everyone has a good week.
